

LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY Projectile Point Types

AN IMMERSIVE EXPERIENCE

Projectile points made of stone, shell, bone, glass, and metal are the primary surviving evidence for the presence of Native Americans in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas during the past 10,000 - 12,000 years.

Projectile points are actual size.

Historic

1600 - 1800 CE

Green Bottle Glass

Iron Point

Guerrero

Transitional Archaic

300 BCE - 700 CE

Darl

Edgewood

Ensor

Middle Archaic

2500 BCE - 1000 BCE

Arenosa

Bulverde

Kinney

Langtry

Marshall

Tortugas

Pedernales

Refugio

Paleo - Indian

9200 BCE - 6500 BCE

Clovis

Angostura

Golondrina

Wilson

Scottsbluff

Late Prehistoric

700 - 1600 CE

Cameron

Caracara

Columella

Fresno

Padre

Perdiz

Revilla

Scallorn

Starr

Toyah

Zapata

Late Archaic

1000 BCE - 300 BCE

Axtell

Catan

Desmuke

Lange

Marcos

Matamoros

Morhiss

Palmillas

Shumla

Early Archaic

6500 BCE - 2500 BCE

Abasolo

Andice

Bell

Early Triangular

Gower

Hidalgo

Lerma

Martindale

Uvalde

Download the RGVpointsAR app, then point your mobile device to scan the poster for an interactive Augmented Reality Experience.

All points were found in the Rio Grande Valley and were identified by the CHAPS Program team. If you have found projectile points like these and/or other historic artifacts and would like to learn more about the CHAPS Program, you may e-mail us at CHAPS@utrgv.edu.

Special Thanks to Atwood Farm, T. Eubanks, M. Krzywonski, D. Kumpe, C. Norquest, N. Morales, A & V Perez, R. Quiroga, C. Atkins, D. Sekula and R. Smith and UTRGV Marketing and Creative Services. Research credit to Ellen Sue Turner, Thomas R. Hester and Richard L. McReynolds. Technical 3D photogrammetry advisor Robin Galoso and CHAPS team assistants Brandi Reger, Jeanette Moritz, and Clara Miller.

Community Historical Archaeology
Project with Schools (CHAPS)

College of Liberal Arts

Summerfield G. Roberts
Foundation of Dallas

HOUSTON
ENDOWMENT

THE SUMMERLEE
FOUNDATION

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE Humanities

QuantumERA™