Leah Hollingshead has a keen interest in the nexus of arts organizations and higher education institutions. She received her Bachelor of Music from Vanderbilt University and her Masters degree in Vocal Pedagogy at UT Austin's Butler School of Music. Her arts administration experience comes from working for non-profits, such as the Orlando Repertory Theatre, music festivals, including Bonnaroo and SXSW, and universities, including the University of Texas at Austin and UT Rio Grande Valley. When she isn't helping UTRGV ARTS produce memorable live events, she enjoys singing throughout south and central Texas; she has recently performed with the Valley Symphony Orchestra Chorale, Brownsville Society for the Performing Arts, and the Camille Lightner Playhouse.
