

Veronica Gomez

Veronica Gomez, a Brownsville, Texas native, is a graduate of The University of Texas at Brownsville, where she earned a B.A. in English and an Associate in Arts degree. She has acquired over ten years of experience in administrative roles and program coordination within the university environment. Veronica has also worked for national, state, and local non-profit organizations as a development manager and events coordinator. In these roles, she has managed and organized events of various sizes, from conferences and donor dinners to large stadium events within South Texas. Coming full circle, Veronica currently serves as a Program Coordinator for UTRGV ARTS on the Brownsville campus, where she oversees and organizes recitals and performances. Veronica's favorite aspect of her job is being immersed in a creative environment filled with music while watching students grow in their respective fields. Additionally, she is an active member of the Rotary Club of Historic Brownsville and when available, volunteers for events around the state. She attributes her passion for fine arts and community engagement to her loving parents.
