I can do multiple things like designing basic things like logos, redesigns as well and much more but I hope to get a more advanced job like 3D modeling and learn to be experienced with the most latest technology. I have always been good with computers and basic stuff like running software's. I can speak two languages Spanish and English. I can learn quick when it comes to coding as well for I have dabbled a little of C++. I hope this best described how I am as a person and what I am capable of doing.
