

Leadership

Joaquin Aviles Lopez (Madrid, NYC) is the Founder of i4SD.

Co-based in New York, Madrid and East Africa. Joaquin holds a Master's in international relations, New School, New York and a Master's in Civil Engineering, Universidad de Granada. He was a Visiting Scholar at the Sustainable Engineering Lab (SEL) at Columbia University. Currently deploying replicable distributed solar powered micro hubs coupled with last mile e-mobility solutions in emerging markets.

With over 20 years of experience in infrastructure planning, project management and international development, Joaquin served as Director of Operations of the Millennium Villages project (MVP), a global partnership between Millennium Promise, The Earth Institute at Columbia University and the United Nations. Joaquin managed an annual $50+M budget multi-sector project across 10 countries in sub-Saharan Africa, including the implementation of a portfolio of 250+ Infrastructure Projects in the areas of Transportation, Water, Energy and ICT.

